3. Admissions

3.1 Admission process

Postgraduate admissions are coordinated by the Graduate School, which invites applications in September each year. Applications are considered based on their merits. Local and non-local applications are handled fairly and equally. Successful applicants are normally admitted to the following Fall Term (beginning in August) of the following year. Applications for deferred admission to the Spring Term (beginning in January) or the next academic year will only be considered if students are unable to take up the study due to illness or another unavoidable cause. The maximum period for deferred admission is one year. Applications for deferred admission should be made to the Graduate Division Head before the start of the academic year.

Each year the Graduate School arranges a briefing on postgraduate admission for staff members of the University. The Manual on Postgraduate Admissions will be updated and distributed to guide them through the exercise. The admission and notification processes are summarized in the diagram on the following page.

3.2 Entrance requirements

Entrance requirements of different TPg programmes are set out in the General Regulations Governing Postgraduate Studies (http://www.gs.cuhk.edu.hk). Graduate Divisions may set additional programme-specific requirements, such as a subject test, or waive such requirements for some special cases. Applicants are also required to fulfill the University’s minimum English language requirement for admission into our TPg programmes. Details are given in the latest version of the Taught Postgraduate Prospectus (http://www.gs.cuhk.edu.hk/admissions).

Applicants holding academic qualifications awarded by completing programmes which differed substantially from “traditional” curricula may be required to provide evidence or objective assessment from accreditation bodies, e.g., Hong Kong Council for Accreditation of Academic and Vocational Qualifications (HKCAAVQ), for further consideration.
