Croucher Research Studentships

Applications are invited for Research Studentships tenable in Hong Kong in 2022. If you are a permanent resident of Hong Kong and wish to devote to a period of full-time study or research in the natural sciences, medicine or technology in approved academic institutions in Hong Kong, you may be eligible for one of these competitive awards.

Each Studentship is for HK$80,000 per annum for up to the third year of doctoral studies, and may be held concurrently with a university postgraduate studentship or another award.

To be eligible you must be applying for a place as a full-time doctoral student in a university in Hong Kong. In addition, you must have either graduated with a First Class Honours or equivalent degree, or be a final year undergraduate student, or be an MPhil student graduating before September 2022. Offers to final year undergraduate students will be conditional upon candidates obtaining First Class Honours or equivalent degrees.

The Butterfield-Croucher Studentship

Applicants in the Medical and Biological Sciences will also automatically be considered for the Butterfield-Croucher Studentship. This award commemorates Lord Butterfield of Stetchford, a former Croucher Trustee who dedicated his life to medical research and education. It provides a cash sum of HK$20,000 on top of the regular HK$80,000, along with a certificate of merit. No separate application is required.

How to apply

You will find full details of the awards available, and the application procedures, on our website. Your application will include a detailed scientific proposal, so please allow plenty of time to complete the form.

All applications must be submitted online before 5:00 pm on 15th November 2021.
